

RUTGERS

Institute for the Study of Global Racial Justice

ISGRJ New Brunswick Call for Research Proposals for 2023-2024

The ISGRJ aims to support faculty research projects and initiatives directed to furthering humanities-based research at Rutgers, New Brunswick on topics related to global racial justice. Proposals should speak to the ways that possible grant funded projects engage with the mission of the Institute as well as research, public engagement, and curricular development/pedagogy. Faculty proposals that focus on policy reform, K-12 education, social justice work, public health, and the carceral state will be given priority.

Eligible Applicants

Individual Faculty:

Any faculty members with full-time appointments at Rutgers, New Brunswick who are working on humanities-based projects.

Faculty Research Groups

Research groups of not more than four (4) faculty members with full-time appointments at Rutgers, New Brunswick who have humanities-based projects.

Terms and Conditions

- Each project will be funded between September 1, 2023-June 30, 2024. (Unused funds will not rollover.)
- Candidates without significant sources of internal or external funding for their proposed research project during the period of the ISGRJ funding will be given preference.
- Candidates may apply with the same proposed research project for a maximum of two years.
- Grant requests should not exceed $5000-$8000.

Application

- Applications are due on March 17, 2023, and should include the following information:
A two-page project description (including primary and secondary audiences) that explains the following:
  1. How does your project further the goals of the ISGRJ?
  2. A one-page budget with specific line items. (What project activities/personnel requires funding?)
  3. Name and contact information.
- Awardees will be notified by April 14, 2023.

Submission

- Applications may be submitted electronically. Click here to access the application form.